Last week's article saw me state facetiously that I was loath to publish details of my trading lifestyle, "Primarily because it is so dreary. No poolside selfies from me, courtesy of a cheap AirBnB holiday." In answer to my previous article, The Search for Edge , Boris (probably not Johnson) left a comment that I felt would be best answered in a dedicated article rather than as a reply in the comments section of the original article. Last week's article saw me state facetiously that I was loath to publish details of my trading lifestyle, "Primarily because it is so dreary. No poolside selfies from me, courtesy of a cheap AirBnB holiday."

Boris commented

James you have never been keen on showing the poolside life of trading, I understand why. But wouldn't it be better to say it's a highly important part because of how stressful trading is? - or any high level competition and learning to turn it off and turn it on is one of the most important parts of high level competition (Trading & Business). Which is why business and trading is the two more difficult domains to achieve substantial success in is because it runs 365 and your neck is on the line everyday. My point being as long as people understand intermittently busting your ass then having a week of in capetown once a quarter will do you much better in the long run than just solid grind in which you become more likely to make errors and costly mistakes. Rest is key whichever way you get it.

I didn't know there was a poolside life to trading. Did I miss a clause in my agreement with Betfair?

Betfair User Agreement

15.2 - All users of the Betfair exchange are expected to post nauseating photographs of their chest hair from different poolside locations on a regular basis or forfeit their exchange rights and privileges.

That'll teach me to scroll immediately to the bottom of those tiresome service agreements and click "I Agree" without reading anything.

Boris says, "But wouldn't it be better to say [poolside life is] a highly important part because of how stressful trading is?"

Why? Is chlorine invigorating for you? Personally, my ears clog up when I'm in a pool and I become very grumpy for the rest of the day so no, being poolside, toasting my chest hair (singular) would not be a good idea. A grumpy bunny does not make a trader.

Reading Boris's comment in its entirety suggests that he is talking about himself, a manual trader, who sits in front of a screen all day long. If I did that then I would not be looking for a pool, I'd be looking for an optician and maybe a psychoanalyst.

If Boris (and others) took the time to read more of this website then he (and they) would realise that I am an algo-trader, one who doesn't sit in front of a screen all day long.

Maybe it is not fully understood what algo-trading is. Yes, there is research and programming to be done in front of a screen but that is varied and enjoyable work and not the chore that the ladder lovers have to endure.

i.e. entry, exit and any money management strategy) and then leaves the bot to get on with it.

Therefore, the algo-trader has a lot more free time and suffers a lot less stress (if any) because they are not physically trading. When a manual trader has constructed (or guessed) a strategy they have to implement it by hand in front of a screen from entry to exit. An algo-trader codes the logic of a strategy into a bot (entry, exit and any money management strategy) and then leaves the bot to get on with it. Therefore, the algo-trader has a lot more free time and suffers a lot less stress (if any) because they are not physically trading.

Boris is rather behind the times if he believes that manual trading is still the mainstay of the financial markets. Most open outcry trading pits have gone. Some of the jobbers have swapped their brightly coloured jackets for a shirt and tie, and sit at electronic terminals but the bulk of financial trading is automatically performed by computers. Yes, the markets are running, somewhere on this planet, 365 but news and data are being processed and acted upon at the speed of light and that's no place for a human.

If you want to relieve the stress of trading then don't trade. Build a trading strategy and leave it to an automated trading system to implement. If you truly have an edge then why are you allowing your human frailties to get in the way of your potential profit? If you have to constantly jump in and take control then your system is not quantifiable and there is no proof of edge.

Narendra Modi se enfrenta a la primera prueba de la política de coalición después de perder su mayoría absoluta en 1 las elecciones indias

El partido Bharatiya Janata de Narendra Modi (BJP) ganó la mayor cantidad de escaños en los resultados de 1 las elecciones anunciados el martes, pero no lo suficiente como para superar el umbral de los 272 escaños parlamentarios, lo 1 que lo obliga a recurrir a socios de coalición para regresar al poder.

Después de disfrutar de una mayoría abrumadora durante 1 una década, negociar una coalición es un territorio nuevo y, según muchos, complicado. "Por primera vez en su carrera política, 1 Narendra Modi tendrá que jugar el juego de la coalición", dijo el profesor Christophe Jaffrelot del King's College de Londres.

Parece 1 que los pequeños partidos que forman parte de la alianza BJP-liderada NDA (Alianza Democrática Nacional) están utilizando su nuevo poder 1 dentro de la coalición a su favor, exigiendo cargos ministeriales influyentes y puestos parlamentarios.

Demandas de los socios de coalición

- El partido 1 Telugu Desam (TDP), que tiene 16 escaños y es dirigido por Chandrababu Naidu, está solicitando la posición de presidente del 1 parlamento, así como cinco cargos ministeriales y el estatus especial para el estado de Andhra Pradesh que gobierna, lo que 1 le concedería más fondos.
- El jefe de gobierno del estado de Bihar, Nitish Kumar, quien encabeza el partido Janata Dal (United), 1 también está solicitando al menos tres cargos ministeriales.

Sin embargo, se informa que el BJP no está dispuesto a ceder ningún 1 cargo clave. Se dice que se niega a entretener la idea de que los puestos clave en defensa, finanzas, asuntos 1 internos y asuntos exteriores, o incluso transporte, carreteras y ferrocarriles, vayan a cualquier otra persona que no sean sus propios 1 ministros.

A pesar de que todos los partidos de la NDA afirmaron que Modi es el líder de la alianza y 1 su candidato preferido para el cargo de primer ministro, el tráfico político de formación de la coalición parece poner a 1 Modi en una situación desventajosa antes de asumir el cargo. Muchos de los partidos en los que depende para regresar 1 al poder tienen un pasado controvertido en las coaliciones, habiendo cambiado de bando en el pasado, incluso en el caso 1 de Kumar en varias ocasiones.

La NDA también está en un plazo ajustado para llegar a un consenso, ya que se 1 han iniciado los preparativos para la ceremonia de toma de posesión de Modi el fin de semana. Se informa que 1 la ceremonia, que originalmente se programó para el sábado, ahora se ha retrasado hasta la noche del domingo.

Las invitaciones ya 1 se han enviado a los líderes regionales para asistir a la ceremonia, con el presidente de Sri Lanka, Ranil Wickremesinghe, 1 la primera ministra de Banglad
