"Multiplayer" redirects here. For other multiplayer games, see Game § Multiplayer

A multiplayer video game is a video game in which more than one person can play in the same game environment at the same time, either locally on the same computing system (couch co-op), on different computing systems via a local area network, or via a wide area network, most commonly the Internet (e.g. World of Warcraft, Call of Duty, DayZ). Multiplayer games usually require players to share a single game system or use networking technology to play together over a greater distance; players may compete against one or more human contestants, work cooperatively with a human partner to achieve a common goal, or supervise other players' activity. Due to multiplayer games allowing players to interact with other individuals, they provide an element of social communication absent from single-player games.

History [edit]

Some of the earliest video games were two-player games, including early sports games (such as 1958's Tennis For Two and 1972's Pong), early shooter games such as Spacewar! (1962)[1] and early racing video games such as Astro Race (1973).[2] The first examples of multiplayer real-time games were developed on the PLATO system about 1973. Multi-user games developed on this system included 1973's Empire and 1974's Spasim; the latter was an early first-person shooter. Other early video games included turn-based multiplayer modes, popular in tabletop arcade machines. In such games, play is alternated at some point (often after the loss of a life). All players' scores are often displayed onscreen so players can see their relative standing. Danielle Bunten Berry created some of the first multiplayer video games, such as her debut, Wheeler Dealers (1978) and her most notable work, M.U.L.E. (1983). Gauntlet (1985) and Quartet (1986) introduced co-operative 4-player gaming to the arcades. The games had broader consoles to allow for four sets of controls.

Os Pacers competem na National Basketball Association (NBA) como um membro da Divisão Central da Conferência Leste.

[3] A equipe foi fundada em 1967 como membro da American Basketball Association (ABA) e tornou-se membro da NBA em 1976 como resultado da fusão entre ABA e NBA.

Eles jogam seus jogos em casa no Gainbridge Fieldhouse.

A equipe recebeu o nome em homenagem a história de Indiana com os carros do Indianapolis
500 e com a indústria de corridas.[4][5]

Os Pacers venceram três títulos, todos na ABA.
