What are the common payment methods supported on betting sites and apps?

A bookmaker can offer everything, but if you can't get your money in and out of your account with ease, then it is a waste of time. Thankfully, most top online bookmakers make it nice and easy to deposit your stake and withdraw funds with various payment types.

The most common method for depositing money is using Visa or Mastercard debit cards. It is important to note that players based in the UK are unable to use credit cards to make deposits for any gambling purposes. Card payments are also rarely part of payment method exclusions within sportsbook bonus terms, so you should have no trouble bypassing restrictions and getting your hands on those free bet credits as soon as you make a qualifying bet with a debit card deposit.

On mobile devices, it is also common to be able to use Apple Pay or Google Pay to make speedy deposits. These payment options can offer convenience and are also one of the fastest deposit methods available. Check out our guide to bookmakers that accept Google Pay.

Talking of speed, e-wallets like PayPal, Skrill and Neteller are also extremely common for sports betting. These allow players to make a deposit using a third party. Players who prefer to not enter their personal details often find that this is one of the best ways to deposit cash. E-wallets also tend to be one of the quickest methods for withdrawing funds from online sportsbooks.

Are bonuses still available on sports betting apps?

Yes. If a bookmaker is offering a bonus, you will be able to claim it on both their desktop site and their mobile app. In some cases, operators may run a bonus specifically for players on mobile devices so be sure to check out the promotions page when you first download the app.

This is true for welcome bonuses and no deposit free bet offers, as well as betting offers for existing customers, so don't worry, you won't be missing out!

Also, if mobile betting sites also double as casino operators, you might be able to get your hands on a casino bonus to use on slots, bingo, table and live dealer games, etc.

Which betting app has the best cash out?

Almost all of the betting apps we have listed offer players the chance to cash out their wagers. Having a good cashout option can be a lifesaver when you have a sense that a result that is currently going your way is about to turn on you.

The best cash-out options tend to be on William Hill and bet365. These two apps both offer up-to-the-second updates and keep you right in the thick of the action. As such, you can time your cash-outs really well and can quickly turn a potentially losing situation into a potentially profitable one.

In our experience, William Hill is the quickest of the sports betting apps listed. However, this is very marginal, with all of the bookies offering a top-quality mobile betting experience, both on iPhone and Android smartphones, from registration to cashing out. The operator has a really easy user interface that allows instant access to depositing options and sports betting markets. William Hill sign up Bet £10 get £30 18+. Play Safe. Are betting apps free to use?
